Cessna Citation Mustang Meeting in Oxford

Around 40 members and friends of the association „Citation Mustang Interest Group“, short „CMIG“, met on 11.05. - 14.05.2023 for the annual general meeting in Oxford, England.

A varied supporting program for the pilots, owners and friends of the Mustang C-510 provided a great positive response. In addition to the official annual CMIG conference, all interested participants enjoyed an Oxford city and college tour, as well as a private boat trip on the Thames followed by lunch overlooking the charming Oxford backdrop.

On Friday evening, members and accompanying persons exchanged ideas intensively in a relaxed atmosphere over a welcome drink at Oxford Airport in the hangar of JMI Maintenance and an original street food truck with fish and chips under musical accompaniment. Textron presented the new Citation M2 Gen2 here, present demo pilots answered all questions competently.

The official part of the general meeting also took place on Saturday in the JMI hangar. There, the latest technical standards of the Mustang C-510 were discussed, internal club votes took place and experiences and case studies were exchanged and discussed. Bernhard Fragner, himself a Mustang pilot and CEO of the world's largest Mustang operator GlobeAir, reported on his invaluable wealth of experience and gave valuable insights into his flight operations. James Nelson, head of Team Mustang at Textron, reported live via Zoom from Wichita on technical news of the Mustang.

On Sunday morning, after breakfast at the historic 5-star Oxford Randolph Hotel, the journey home in sunshine took place.

Association spokesman Dr. Till Werner praised the organisation through the team of JMI and RPM Oxford and was pleased with the many positive feedbacks from the members and their accompaniments. He spoke of a successful and well-organised event that will remain in good memory for everyone.
